Culture for the Inclusion of Refugees and Migrants

Handbook on Best Practices from Regions

Inclusion by culture

Sharing of good practice in AER

During the autumn of 2015 the world got to face a new situation with refugees, a situation not seen in decades. This brings huge challenges for Europe, but also huge possibilities. At the same time extreme right parties, and even ultra nationalists and Nazi ideas are gaining ground around Europe. In the network of AER regions have to come together to help people in extreme need to keep Europe a place of humanity and solidarity. By fighting against racist politics and ideas that are dividing the human race Europe becomes stronger and better.

In this work we need different tools and different methods in every area of politics. I, and many with me, know the importance of the culture and culture activities, institutions and methods in this work. I believe that culture can be one of the world's best tools to create inclusion in society.

There are different ways of looking at new cultures coming to a country. I believe that culture can be a way to make people feel included, not just integrated. Asylum seekers and newly arrived need equal starting points and that we achieve by talking about inclusion instead of integration.

In nearly all societies things like music, dance, theatre, food, and art are pillars on which its culture rests. Thus, as something which transcends geographic boundaries, cultural activities have an important role to play in the inclusion of newcomers in societies. Cultural activities with refugees and migrants provide a safe place where they can interact and form connections with locals, learn the language, and express their cultural identities in their new countries. They give a space for refugees and migrants to acquire skills which will boost their employability and gain an understanding of their new country's culture.

In this compilation members from the AER network have shared their experiences of how to use culture to increase the inclusion of refugees and newly arrivals in their regions. This collection of best practices aims to inspire readers and motivate regions to continue exchanging experiences on this important topic. We need to help each other in the challenges that lie ahead.

Thank you for sharing.

Various project in Region Gävleborg, Sweden

Region                Gävleborg

Project name      Music- the global language

Duration            Spring 2015→

Organisation      Musica Viva

Contact             Alf NORBERG
alf.norberg@regiongavleborg.se

Description      Our idea is that, through various channels, create meetings with asylum seekers who already have a strong connection to music; professional musicians, amateur and hobby musicians who need assistance in any form to resume their musicianship. We hope to connect the asylum seekers with those who received a permanent residence permit. Although we have not actively sought meetings, it has come to our attention that among the newly arrived are professional guitarists and pianists. By the Asylum Choir (which is the Church-sponsored), we have met newly arrived children and young people who want to start or continue to make music.

We hope initially to form a group of about 10 - 20 newcomers with some sort of musical 'need.' Musica Viva's members would take the role of pilots in the cultural offerings of Söderhamn. Initially, we want to talk about music and what it means for our lives, and to join together - over the threshold - in concerts in various genres. In the longer term, the aim is to stimulate further cultural exchange and celebrate through music making. We hope that some of the participants can become parts of Musica Viva and be involved in planning our future activities. We also want to inform other compounds, cultural unions and parents about where their children can make music. We hope to create new meetings for all of us through the music.

We want to be a bridge between the newly arrivals and the cultural activities that are already in Söderhamn and its surroundings. We are convinced that it is enriching for all of us. The music is the global emotional language!

The purpose of the project is to integrate asylum seekers and newly arrived in the gaming culture on equal terms and at the same time give them the opportunity to be a part of the association's gaming culture. With this project, they want to show and spread the knowledge of what Gävle has to offer in computer technology, e-sports, board games, etc.

Project name      Lyckebokören

Duration           November 2015→

The Region of Gävleborg granted the municipality 25 000 SEK, to employ a choirmaster. The choir meets once a week and practice together for about two hours. Young people in all of the three lodgings can choose the choir as their "Swedish weekly activity".

In the choir there are about about 20 active participants. The Study Promotion Association is a partner to the project and will pay for a studio recording of a disc when the choir are ready for it. The members of the choir has been in some different music events together and also made an official appearance for the audience.

Noted in the project was that many stories from different countries are much alike. That makes the students feel confidence and allows for understanding between their culture and the new Swedish culture became stronger. After the fall the students in the group had learned Swedish in a more efficient way then the teachers had seen before.

Provincie Noord-Brabant

Region North Brabant

Project name Kunstkamaden

Duration 2015 →

Organisation Cultuurkantine

Contact info@cultuurkantine.nl

Description In many cities, asylum centres are geographically isolated from the most frequented areas of town making it difficult for refugees to befriend locals. Even when refugees have obtained status and live in municipalities, ethnic enclaves often develop reinforcing refugees' lack of social contact with native residents.

Cultuurkantine believes art can be a powerful mechanism for the inclusion of refugees in society by connecting cultures and communities, and have dedicated themselves to ending refugees' social isolation. Thus, in 2015 they founded the Kunstkameraden project for refugees living in asylum centers in Breda. The project pairs young, artistically inclined refugees with professional artists where they collaborate to create different works ranging from pottery to paintings.

Region            Zurich Canton

Project name    Refugee Theatre

Duration        2015 →

Organisation   Malaika

Contact        info@fluechtlingstheater-malaika.ch

Description    The refugee theatre was founded in 2014 as a small initiative for visitors of a weekly lunch, supported by the Solinetz and the parish of Aussersihl. Originally a group of 20, composed of people from 9 nations, 4 religions, and 3 generations, created the short 30-minute play “Diversity Zurich”, presenting it twice in one week in front of 100 spectators.

Since then, the initiative has grown constantly, which led to the foundation of Flüchtlings Theater Malaika. They develop one or two plays every year, together with all participants. With such a diverse cast the plays bring together multiple cultural influences and allow participants to learn from each other's cultures. Moreover, the initiative helps to improve the newcomers' German while increasing their confidence in expressing themselves in a new environment. Finally, the refugee theatre has helped to include the refugees in Swiss society by forging connections with locals.

Kanton Basel-Stadt

Region Basel-Stadt

Project name Gastschafftfreund

Duration 2016 →

Organisation Gastschafftfreund Association

Contact imail@gastschafftfreund.ch

Description In Gastschafftfreund (guest friend), the Gastschafftfreund Association helps bring refugees and locals get together to bond over a shared meal. The association collects invitations forms from families, couples, and singles living in the Basel region and determines which hosts would be best suited for interested refugees. Once the matching has been completed, each party is informed with the hosts often calling the guests to arrange a time.

According to creator Marta Casulleras, the inspiration for the project came from a report on a Stockholm based teacher who brought together refugees and locals over dinner. Casulleras has now created her own version of the initiative in Basel Stadt, bringing together locals who would otherwise rarely meet. While the focus is on the encounter and not the culinary art, dinner holds a special place in numerous societies. In multiple cultures, the table is a place of family gathering and is a symbol of togetherness, serving as the backdrop to intimate conversation. Indeed, conversing over a common cultural aspect such as dinner helps to bridge other linguistic and cultural barriers by adding an element of familiarity to the situation.

Region Timiș

Organisation Timiș County Council, Via Rumania Cultura

Contact José Miguel VIÑALS
jm.vinals@viarumania.com

Description The affluence of migrants from different cultures into Western societies (generic denomination that would also include all EU countries, the American continent, Australia and New Zealand) is a way of enriching our often old societies with young people, very necessary workforce to maintain our economies at cruising speed. But it can also be a source of problems linked to the diversity of perspectives and the difficulty for the newcomers to adopt the set of values that form the base of the societies they plan to stay at. Culture is not a passion for concerts, art, literature and theater. Culture is the way a group of people (nation, country) understands life and organizes to respond to these understanding. It is before all a set of values.

The success of the inclusion (integration) of newcomers has a unique point of departure: their determination and total wish to integrate, meaning with this their conviction that they want to adopt the values of the place they want to live at.

If this first condition is fulfilled the following necessary requirements are as follows.

- 1.) They need to receive help to integrate: A team of dedicated people from the society need to be ready to attend the newcomers and to assist them in their first steps. These professionals will transmit cultural values together with all the necessary information for the best of integrations.
- 2.) The immigrants have to know that law has to be respected. Local law is part of the set of values and has its foundations in the culture of that society.
- 3.) The immigrants need to feel that they are accepted by the rest of society. If not they will look for reasons to not renounce to their own set of values and this will be the root of future conflict.
- 4.) Public authorities need to monitor and supervise the ongoing integration evolution in the long term. It is extremely hard for one person to change their mindset to adopt a new one. Support, counseling and monitoring need to be available at any moment.
